

---

Original Article

Student Support Services in Assam's Higher Education: An Empirical Study

Kasturi Goswami<sup>*1</sup>, Reema Rabha<sup>1</sup> and Pankaj Bora<sup>2</sup>

<sup>1</sup>Department of Economics, Bahona College, Jorhat, Assam, India

<sup>2</sup>Department of Political Science, Bahona College, Jorhat, Assam, India

*Corresponding author email: kasturigoswami2011@gmail.com

---

Abstract

Student support, encompassing scholarships, counseling, and various administrative services, is essential for accommodating the increasing diversity within the student population. This empirical study examines the student support services in higher education institutions in Assam, particularly

Citation: Goswami, K.; Rabha, R.; focusing on NAAC-accredited colleges. The study identifies and analyzes the mechanisms available